Osprey Packs

The Poco Series channels everything Osprey knows about packs into a new line of child carriers. Among the many innovations across the line is the quick and easy adjustment technology. To adjust the torso length, for instance, users release the cam buckle in the center of the backpanel, and the ventilated shoulder straps are free to glide up and down over a 6" adjustment range. The screen-printed scale makes it quick to position accurately. Lock the buckle down and the yoke is fixed securely. The belt, meanwhile, can be adjusted while wearing, with pads able to extend 3" on each side. Pictured here is the Poco Premium with a suggested retail of $299.
