Travel Smarter 2012: The best gear for your 2012 travels

Bad gear is dead weight, you might as well toss it right into that bin with the stuff that the TSA says you can't take on the plane. A bag that has cheap zippers, clothing that doesn't dry quickly when you've washed it in the hotel room sink, refillable bottles that don't stay shut and ooze shampoo all over the shirt you packed especially for that client meeting... Packing smart is just, well, it's smart. After a year of gear, I've got some ideas about what works well for me, but also, I polled friends and readers for the smartest in new gear. And some of it? Wow, smart stuff.

Osprey Transporter 60: Not everything has to be a backpack. Osprey's Transporter line comes with a harness so you can carry it as a backpack if you absolutely have to, but it's also a top notch duffel. Weekends, road trips, short hops... a great all purpose duffel.
