I was introduced to the Osprey Spin 32 at Interbike this year. I knew I'd enjoy her, but I had no idea she and I would be inseparable since the day she arrived at my doorstep.

This bag was born with a purpose and meticulously designed for ultimate user satisfaction.

The Osprey Spin 32 is a focused bag for the cyclist, not the racer, not the bike messenger, but all the other 'tweeners, this includes the commuters, bike tourers, park rats, afternoons, all day adventurers, joy riders, grocery getters and the likes.

Compartmentalizing for me as cyclist is critical. With the Spin 32, I can quickly grab gloves out of the side pocket. The other side pocket houses pump and extra tube and also keeps my headlamp quickly accessible for a nighttime departure.

Coffee stop – the zippered pocket on the top flap makes for a quick in and out, effortlessly juggling between cash, keys, cards, phone, and sunglasses.

Laptop- an easy grab from the protected laptop compartment.

Bike lock – conveniently stashed in the fitted bike lock pouch.

Maps and cue sheet – check. They're two seconds away as well.

Don't happen to be biking, but headed away for a long weekend? The Spin 32's pretty awesome for that as well. The zippered sides and the front flap closure quickly change the capacity from a great daily commuting bag to a comfortable and effective weekender.

Pair this bag with the quality you've come to expect from Osprey, this is a pack you've fall quickly in love with and with whom, you may soon become inseparable.
