Osprey Packs Names Mountain Stuff Agency of the Year

Cortez, CO – May 21, 2015 – Osprey Packs, a leader in creating top-quality, high-performance, innovative packs to comfortably and efficiently carry gear, is proud to announce that Colorado based Mountain Stuff has been awarded Agency of the Year. While this award reflects Mountain Stuff's achievement for 2014, Osprey's partnership with Mountain Stuff spans more than two decades of consistent sales growth.

"We are thrilled to honor Mountain Stuff with Agency of the Year for 2014," said Brad Bates, Director of Sales, Osprey Packs. "Last year was unprecedented for Osprey and Leta and her team were significant contributors to our success. Equally important is the attention, care and detail they extend to every one of our retail customers. We value all our agency partners and feel so fortunate to work with such a professional, dedicated and passionate agency as Mountain Stuff for the past 21 years."

Based in Denver, Colorado and lead by Leta Kalfas, Mountain Stuff is an independent sales rep agency specializing in independently owned, technical outdoor companies. The Osprey rep team consists of Leta Kalfas, Rich Weight, Tyler Noonan, and Ashley Tucker covering Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, and New Mexico.

"We are so incredibly honored to receive this award from Osprey," said Leta Kalfas of Mountain Stuff. "Our team is so passionate about this brand, and we are truly dedicated to Osprey and the people who make Osprey happen. We couldn't be more grateful to have a brand like Osprey Packs in our quiver of products at Mountain Stuff."
