

Gripped

October 2010

The Rack

Featuring: The Mutant

Mutant

Osprey $180

Climbers wanting a cragging and alpine climbing pack will love the Mutant. Built with enough volume for a full day at the local cliff, the Mutant's sleek shape and comfortable suspension systems make it ideal for more committing alpine climbs. Osprey uses a smart combination of strong lightweight fabrics with abrasion resistant overlays ensuring excellent durability with minimal weight. Other climbing-specific features include built-in haul loops, hip-belt gear-loops and a bivy pad in the back panel. While these elements may not matter to climbers content with car-side cragging, anyone thinking of climbing longer routes in the backcountry should consider the Mutant.

