13 Camping Items Every Man Needs

The weather is warm and the trails are inviting. It's camping season, high time to strike out for a few days of life in nature, but first you have to gear up. Use this guide to pick the best new (and some classic) essentials for your next excursion.

It's never easy going when you're hauling a pack full of gear, but the Atmos 65 features lightweight materials and a sturdy alloy frame to help offset some of the strain you're bound to feel on a daylong trek. The full-adjustable torso lets you customize the pack to your height, and there's plenty of space for all your belongings with over 65 liters of capacity in the main compartment. $239, osprey.com
