

OpenAirLife.com

March 26, 2013

Gear Guide: Spring 2013 Women's Specific Hiking Gear

Featuring: Mira 34

URL: <http://tinyurl.com/cf6hqvc>

Gear Guide: Spring 2013 Women's Specific Hiking Gear

Spring can be a time of unpredictable weather. But spring is also a great time to get out and see the first signs of summer. We have gathered some of the newest pieces of gear to keep you dry and comfortable as well as a couple packs that will carry some essential while on any hike. And the best part is all this gear is specifically designed for women.

Osprey Mira 34

The Mira 34 is a new women's-specific complement to the Manta line of multi-sport hydration packs. Highly ventilated and loaded with features, this series is unique in the sea of hydration packs. The Mira is the go anywhere, do anything pack. Key features include the AirSpeed™ backpanel and a new ventilated BioStretch™ harness for cool comfort. The pack is designed with a direct zip access hydration sleeve with HydraLock frame as well as the handy Stow-on-the-Go trekking pole feature and an integrated raincover for all weather protection.

Features:

- Full hipbelt to keep pack stable and transfer load effectively
- Wide panel access to main compartment plus zip access to sunglass pocket and roomy zippered hipbelt pockets
- Stretch mesh front pocket for quickly stashing extra gear
- Magnetic sternum buckle for quick access to the reservoir bite valve
- Helmet attachment loop
- Mira is available in Espresso Brown, Serene Green:
- Pounds/Ounces: 2/2 (XS/S), 2/5 (S/M)
- MSRP: $159.00
- http://www.ospreypacks.com/en/product/womens_1/mira_34

