

Benosh
Outside. On a Budget.

Benosh.com

October 18, 2013

Featuring: Radial 34

URL: <http://www.benosh.com/osprey-radial-34/>

Osprey once again proved why they are my favorite pack ever. Seriously, it's not even my birthday, and I got this magnificent pack from the generous folks at Osprey. Yes, they sent me a Radial 34 to test out, and I did indeed.

The pack has many of the usual suspects with Osprey's clever, well thought out design and construction of their packs, but I believe my favorite hidden benefit was the nicely tucked away, easily removed and used bag cover. Go ahead and keep going—your gear will stay dry.

Designed to handle the rigors of bike commuting, but certainly not limited to cyclists, these well-featured, yet highly technical packs are ideal for active everyday use. The new Radial Series provides deluxe ventilated comfort with their Osprey's AirSpeed™ backpanel. Made of 420D dobby and 420HD nylon, they've got a sturdy, yet lightweight material base. A suspended mesh backpanel for superior ventilation and comfort allow breathability for your back as you trek along. I also dug the Laptop/Tablet compartment for business use.

Osprey's website has all the specs you could want and links to purchase this incredible offering. Seriously, I truly dig this pack, and I believe you will too.

Osprey Radial 34

