Backpacks

Smart suspension systems make loads easier to shoulder on long days.

BREAKOUT

The Big-Trip Pack That Feels Small

The roomy Osprey Atmos AG 65 feels like you're wearing a much lighter pack. Credit that hauling power to body-contouring padding and mesh suspension that allows the pack to move as if it were part of your torso. Even better, the load lifters (those straps right at the top of the shoulder harness) connect to the entire suspension harness, meaning it's easier to adjust the fit once you get it on. $260; ospreypacks.com

STOW IT
Smart storage includes a removable top compartment, a mesh pocket, and a trekking-pole holding system.
