

Backcountry

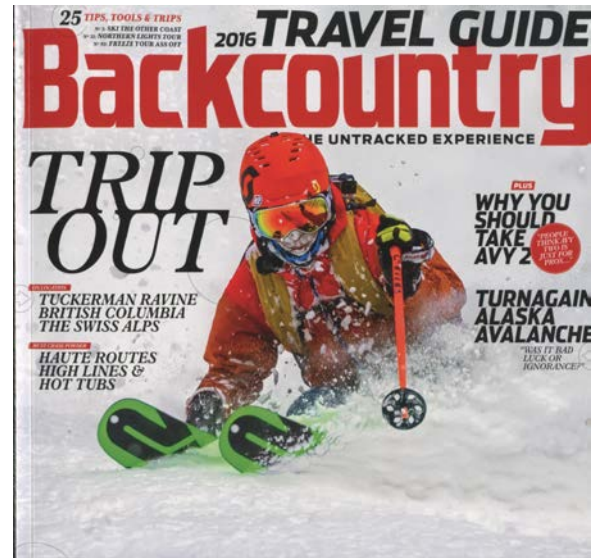

October 2015

Picking the Right Luggage

Featuring: Ozone 22"

Circulation: 24,596

Readership: 73,788

N° 39 LUG IT WITH STYLE

Picking the Right Luggage

Patagonia Black Hole Wheeled Duffel
$350 - patagonia.com
Unless the only thing you're packing is a rando Spandex suit, travelling in the winter requires plenty of suitcase space. Enter Patagonia's Black Hole Wheeled Duffel, which comes in 45-, 100- and 120-liter sizes and features a water-repellent fabric finish, stout wheels and interior mesh pockets for organization.

Osprey Ozone 46L
$230 - ospreypacks.com
Perfect for shorter trips, Osprey's Ozone suitcase is small enough to fit in an airplane overhead compartment and weighs a modest 4 lbs. 7 oz. The main compartment and seven additional pockets provide plenty of room for carry-on items, as well as apparel and gear.

Dakine Fall Line Double 15w
$130 - dakine.com
Dakine's Fall Line bag turns schlepping skis through the airport into an easy glide, with sturdy wheels, dual handles and enough room for two pairs of skis. And with separate boot sections, say goodbye to trying to fit your boots in the overhead compartment. Also available in a shorter version designed to be women's-specific ($130).

JAM COLLECTIVE