

Osprey Farpoint 55 Review Travel Backpack

OutdoorGearLab.com

June 8, 2015

Travel Backpack

Featuring: Farpoint 55 – Editors' Choice

Monthly Traffic: 1,298,500

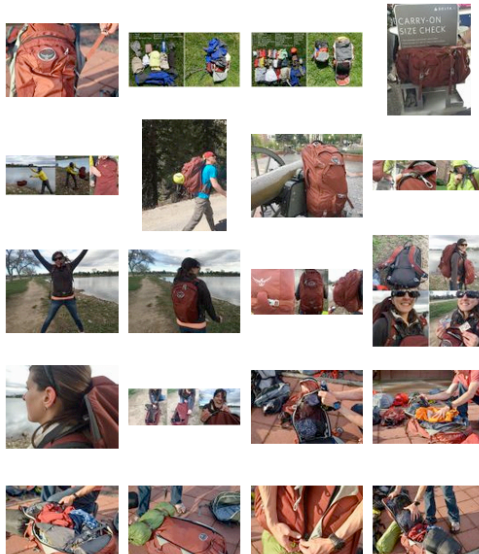

URL: <http://tinyurl.com/agw26sh>

Overview

Once again, the Osprey Farpoint 55 walks away as our Editors' Choice winner. This pack has the travel-specific features that you want and the space that you need to maximize your experience. It is one of the best travel packs we've put our hands on and it scored near the top in the areas of comfort, features, ease of packing, and durability. Its sleek design is easy to carry through crowded streets and is much more ergonomic than some of the other packs that were short and wide. The main body of the pack provides 40 liters of packable volume. The 15 liter companion daypack is super useful and fastens to the outside of the pack more securely than any other detachable pack in the review. Further, this little pack is quite comfortable when used alone and had a range of pockets.

Conclusion

The Osprey Farpoint 55 coincidentally wins our Editors' Choice again because we truly believe that it is the best all around travel pack on the market. Other packs blend features that are nice for outdoor ventures, but if you're looking for the best pack to take on your next trip to Europe or South America, this one is pretty much impossible to beat. It is super packable, comfortable, durable, and has excellent features.

This Product
Product Name	Osprey Farpoint 55
Street Price	Varies $166 - $180 Compare at 7 sellers
Overall Score	0 76 100
Editors' Awards
Pros	Easy to pack, comfortable, detachable day pack
Cons	Frame makes it too big for a carry-on, not the best for extended travel
Best Uses	Adventure travel, trips less than two weeks
Date Reviewed	Jun 08, 2015
Weighted Metrics	Osprey Farpoint 55
Comfort - 25%	0 8 10
Features - 25%	0 8 10
Ease Of Packing - 20%	0 9 10
Durability - 15%	0 8 10
Weight - 15%	0 4 10