

GearJunkie.com

January 4, 2016

Future Gear: First Look at 2016 Outdoor Products

Featuring: Kamber 22/Kresta 20

Monthly Traffic: 577,100

URL: <http://tinyurl.com/z83k5ql>

GEARJUNKIE

Future Gear: First Look At 2016 Outdoor Products

Our exclusive look at gear coming to market in 2016 includes new technologies and never-seen designs. It all debuts at the Outdoor Retailer Winter Market trade show in Utah this week.

A handful of products caught our eye from initial press announcements and scoops around the Outdoor Retailer show. We'll be on the trade show floor all week to find the most revolutionary products coming in 2016 and beyond. For now, check out this peek behind the curtain.

Osprey Packs will introduce a full range of backcountry ski/snowboard packs, including the Kresta, the brand's first women's specific backcountry design. The Kamber 22/Kresta 20 have gender specific fit, a quick-access avalanche safety kit pocket, an easily accessible dry compartment, dual position helmet carry, adjustable ski/snowboard lasso carry, and tuckaway ice tool loops. The design is also available in a larger 42-liter configuration.

Osprey Goes Backcountry Skiing

JAM COLLECTIVE